

Connecting Nurses is an initiative for nurses supported by sanofi, built in partnership with nursing organizations.

Its mission is to bring nurses together on-line and in the real world.

Connecting Nurses has the ambition to provide nurses an innovative nurse-centric online program, where they can share their innovations related to patient education, practice, research, as well as on line useful links & resources.

Creating a community around nursing innovation that values nurses and their ideas: post your initiatives on now! 2013 is the Diabetes Year!

Ease and facilitate contact and communication between nurses, their patients or/and relatives using a unique time saving service sharing links according to your topics of interest

Information Shareapy : A unique time saving service sharing links by therapeutic areas

- Create a nurse community
- Unique time-saving service
- Focus on patient education
- Community resource center including reference profiles from nursing organizations
